Office reports

Treasurer: Ryan Bailey

A profit of £86.47 was made during the year, with four quiz wins contributing to this value somewhat. Midmad made a profit, and with the greater than usual influx of freshers Halloween camp was also successful.

Liaisons: Ania Jasko and Izzy Seale

Midmad was a great success again, making a profit as with last year, was executed well with only one police call and zero casualties. GPS trackers were used at outdoor with significant hail occurring, and indoor almost manage to finish on time.

President: Liam Natrass

Andrew saw a train so we can say summer camp was a big success, and thanks to Jack we won four pub quizzes in the new year. The freshers input this year was significantly larger than usual, including non-scout or guide members. Some balls got slapped pretty good at Halloween camp. Most of the events that occurred last year happened again, though a chip shop hike and geocaching event were also done this year.

Presentations

Ryan gifted Liam some alcohol, and Liam started getting emotional then used the break as an excuse to say the outgoing exec gifts had been delayed

Motions

This society notes:

Doing personalised risk assessments for insignificant hazards is a waste of time that could be put to greater use elsewhere

This society resolves:

Let's not do personalised risk assessments for insignificant hazards

This society proposes:

To not waste time on unnecessary tasks, and to remove the clause concerning personal risk assessments from the constitution

Proposed by Andrew Wilson

Seconded by Ryan Bailey

Approved on a general aye

This society notes:

Let's introduce the roles of mother mole and uncle roger to members that are deemed good parental figures, preferably members of three years or more

This society resolves:

May be a bit weird to freshers and/or ex members to have parental figures, and people may not want the titles they're getting

This society proposes:

One title per year that is decided at the AGM, with no mandatory need to fill the role or even accept the title

Proposed by Andrew Wilson

Seconded by Ryan Bailey

Approved on a general aye

This society notes:

There is a lack of mascots for all the roles, with spaces in the constitution being upsetting to certain members

This society resolves:

Certain members don't want the responsibility of looking after a treasured society mascot, and in the words of Izzy 'I don't want to touch that grotty fucking mole'. The resources necessary to acquire could be best used elsewhere.

This society proposes:

Andrew purchases all the mascots he likes for the roles, and it is not mandatory to look after your elected mascot, as it can stay in stores

Proposed by Andrew Wilson

Seconded by Liam Natrass

Passed with 10 votes aye, 1 nay

This society notes:

DUSAGG is often misspelled as DUSSAGG, so we should ∴ change the name to
'Durham University Sexy Scout And Guide Group'

This society resolves:

What. Why?

This society proposes:

That Ryan tries to not put off future members, in Liam's words 'stop'.

Proposed by Ryan Bailey

Seconded by absolutely no one

Rejected on a general nay
